What is RAH?

The Reading At Home (RAH) program is a home delivery service offered by Seward Memorial Library. RAH is one way in which the Seward Library Board makes materials in the library available to all citizens of Seward.

Who can qualify for RAH?

The RAH service is offered to residents of the City of Seward who have a Seward Memorial Library card in good standing. If you are unable to get to the library because of a temporary or extended disability, chronic illness or are otherwise restricted to your home, you are eligible for RAH. If you are elderly and without transportation or if you are a resident of a local care facility, you may also make use of this service.

What is available through RAH?

Any materials normally allowed to circulate are available for this service, including books, magazines, videos and audio books. You will need to specify what you prefer to help the staff make selections.

How can I order materials?

You may call the library at 402-643-3318 or email the staff at info@sewardlibrary.org to initiate your involvement in the RAH program and to ensure placement on the regular delivery schedule.

How can I get a library card?

If you do not have a current library card at Seward Memorial Library, but would like to get one to receive RAH service, call 402-643-3318. A patron number can be issued to you and the necessary card application brought to you for completion during our first visit.

How will books reach me?

Delivery of materials will be made at a scheduled time. Staff will select your materials before each delivery day, so if you want something specific, reserve that item online or call the library before your delivery day.

How long can I keep the materials?

All library materials are checked out to you for four weeks, unless it is an item in high demand which has a 14-day checkout period. Most items may be renewed. There are no fines for items which are overdue because of the delivery schedule.

What else do I need to know?

All policies of Seward Memorial Library apply to the RAH program, including the replacement of lost or damaged materials. Please contact the staff if you know in advance that you will not be home during your scheduled delivery time. Materials will not be left outside at home addresses.
